Title IX at 35: Have We Reached Educational Equity for Women and Girls?

Join us as the National Coalition for Women and Girls in Education releases its new report, Title IX At 35: Beyond the Headlines. For thirty-five years Title IX has prohibited sex discrimination in education programs that receive federal financial assistance, opening the doors for women to become doctors, lawyers, and professional athletes. However, much work remains to be done. Go beyond the media headlines and learn how Title IX has affected athletics, career and technical education, STEM (science, technology, engineering, and math) education, and sexual harassment in schools, and hear recommendations from the experts on how to reach equity in education.
